

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Federal Communications Commission;

I have been licensed in the Amateur Radio Service since 1987 and currently hold an Advanced Class license with the callsign N6VHF.

The points Dr. Trahos cite are irrelevant. Claiming ignorance of the law and the fallacy that the existing laws cannot be enforced are no reason to give foreign nationals unlicensed use of our Amateur Radio spectrum. As said in the majority of the filed comments, U.S. FRS radios are as cheap as $20 a pair. Anyone who can afford to fly over from Europe and spend a week at Walt Disney World can more than easily spend $20 on a pair of FRS radios that can be used on frequencies that were set aside for this type of unlicensed operation. There is absolutely no reason to allow unlicensed and virtually uncontrollable operations on a highly utilized Amateur Radio band.

I have read all the comments regarding RM-10521 and there is not much more that I can say that others have not already covered. This petition will do absolutely nothing to further "International Good Will" as the author suggests. I strongly oppose Dr. Trahos petition (RM-10521) and respectfully request that the FCC deny this petition without further delay.

Sincerely,

Neil Jessen – N6VHF
